

EPRG Energy & Environment Seminar Programme

Lent Term 2020

Tuesdays starting at 12:30

- 14 January Iain Staffell (Imperial College London) Taxes, subsidies or regulation: Why have Britain's carbon emissions from electricity halved? (Cambridge Judge Business School, Room KH107)
- 21 January Maureen Paul (Ofgem) The distributional impact of policy proposals on different groups of GB energy consumers (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
- 28 January Mathilde Fajardy (EPRG, University of Cambridge) The economics of BECCS deployment in a 1.5°C or 2°C world (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
- 4 February Randolph Brazier (Energy Networks Association) Flexibility markets for electricity in Great Britain (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
- 11 February Rebecca Ly (EPRG, University of Cambridge) The competitive effects of sequential intraday electricity markets: Evidence from Italy (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
- 18 February William Nuttall (The Open University) Fossil Fuel Hydrogen: Technical, Economic and Environmental Potential (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
- 25 February Aoife Haney (University of Oxford) Business model innovation for sustainable development: Lessons from off-grid energy in Sub-Saharan Africa (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
- 3 March Andreas Lange (University of Hamburg) Private contributions and the regional scope of public good provision: How donation experiments can inform public policy (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)

Seminar organizer: Robert Ritz (rar36@cam.ac.uk)